CONFESSION
 sorry that I did it. I've gone through all kinds of torment in my mind and in my heart.

Mildred was taken into custody late last night when a sharp-eyed traffic policeman noticed her "walking down the street, looking around as if she were confused" and then spotted her resemblance to newspaper photographs.

She had been sought for questioning since Mary's bullet-riddled, oil-soaked body was discovered Monday.

Interment was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery, Beverly, with committal services.

Express Belief College Student Suicide Victim
WELLESLEY, Aug. 26 (INS)—Wellesley Police Chief Robert B. McVey today expressed fear that pretty Sylvia Plath, 20-year-old Smith College junior-honor student, may have committed suicide after she vanished from her home two days ago.

The chief said the girl's mother, Mrs. Aurelia S. Plath, Boston University professor, and several of the girl's friends whom she questioned, all agreed Sylvia was depressed and "that it was very apparent that suicide was on her mind."

McVey said the student was a patient of Dr. Kenneth J. Tilletson, a psychiatrist, and that on Monday morning, a few hours before the girl dropped from sight, a druggist had filled a prescription for 50 capsules of a sedative.

Later, the bottle of pills was missing and presumably Miss Plath had taken them with her.

Meanwhile, police sought the aid of Smith College students throughout the country in the search for Sylvia.

The girls were being contacted by police in the hope they may furnish a clue to Sylvia's mysterious disappearance.

Wellesley Police Chief Robert B. McVey said there was a "small chance" the missing girl may have been in touch with some of her school friends.

6 New Englanders Released By Reds In POW Exchange
BOSTON, Aug. 26 (INS)—A Polish theater soldier, captured in action in 1945, today was among six New Englanders released in the latest exchange of prisoners in Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hagan of 155 Essex street, Boston, were among those released last night. Mr. Hagan said they had never heard a word that he was a prisoner of war.

The elder Hagan declared when he heard the news.

"Thank God. It's the happiest wonderful thing that ever happened to me."

Other New Englanders released were Cpl. Joseph DiGiacomo, 22 Everett street, Easton; Sgt. Edward Fisher, New Bedford; Cpl. Irving D. Biederman, 22 Lamont st., N. H. Pt.; Robert J. Dalmarzo, 22 Providence R. 1; and Cpl. Donald M. Goddard, of Canaan, Conn.

ARMISTICE

 will be accounted for by the freeing of Americans captured in the last days of the Korean war.

Meanwhile, the Communist command announced it will release 150 Americans, including 50 S. K. and inured, as well as 250 South Koreans in tomorrow's round of Operation Big Switch.

First disclosures of Red brutality toward war prisoners, were made by some of today's batch of repatriates.

Cpl. James E. Wilson of Chattanooga, Tenn., who came back from more than three years of captivity, charged that North Korean troops murdered captured Americans during the early months of the war. He said one Red guard killed a wounded U. S. sergeant by slitting his throat with a razor.

The latest round of Big Switch was marked by the start of the repatriation of American officers from North Korean Camp Two on the Yalu river, ending a 10-month repatriates to pass through the Panmunjom prisoner exchange point to Freedom Village was jet pilot Nielsen.

The flying lieutenant said the entire Camp Two group of 395 American officers and 23 enlisted men of the Air Force were sent south five days ago and have arrived at Kaesong, the Red committee headquarters.

B. U. Student Is Arrested Trying To Enter TV Shop
BOSTON, Aug. 26 (INS)—A 22-year-old Boston University student from Kilton, captured at airport in a police chase in the Back Bay, early yesterday after an alleged attempted break into a Newbury street TV shop, admitted committing two other breaks in the past month when he appeared in the police headquarters lineup today.

The youth told police questioners he had gained entry to a Coolidge Corner men's shop through a rear door and taken a dozen shirts and a quantity of socks. He also told of breaking into a Boylston street shop through a rear window and taking about 100 shirts and socks.

The youth, employed as a night watchman in the Back Bay, previously had admitted other breaks in a police questioning. Police plan to continue their investigation today and arraign him in court tomorrow.

Greek War Bride Wins 1st Round In Deportation Fight

BOSTON, Aug. 26 (INS)—A young Greek war bride, winner of the first round of a fight to avoid deportation to her native land, today prepared for the start of the second round in federal court.

Deportation proceedings against Mrs. Amenouhi Baghdasarian, 27, Whitinsville, were started on the ground she once held membership in the Communist Party, was granted the right of home within ten days by Federal Judge George C. Sweeney.

Samuel Abrams, counsel for Mrs. Baghdasarian, a mother of two, moved for the hearing on the grounds she was not supplied with a complete bill of particulars and specific charges. Her attorney said he did not realize she would be deported when she surrendered her naturalization papers.

A deportation hearing was held last month but the decision has not yet been announced.

On the witness stand, Mrs. Baghdasarian denied that she ever was a member of the Communist Party or signed papers in connection with it. She came to America after marrying John Baghdasarian in 1942, while he was serving in the U. S. Army. She became a citizen two years after landing in America.

Baghdasarian said she enrolled herself and her wife in the Communist Party in 1947, but renounced later. She had made a mistake, Mrs. Baghdasarian, according to the husband, never signed a membership card and did not pay dues.

Baghdasarian said she attended a party meeting in Worcester in 1947 but did not realize what the organization was.

Baghdasarian said she had no contact with her wife in the Communist Party in 1947, but renounced later. She had made a mistake, Mrs. Baghdasarian, according to the husband, never signed a membership card and did not pay dues.

Conn. Accountant Charged With Tax Extortion Racket

HARTFORD, Aug. 26 (INS)—Teams of auditors today checked the books of a state sales tax division accountant who is accused of extorting money from businessmen to cover up their tax delinquencies.

The auditors sought additional evidence against a former state employee, Matthew J. Callahan, 51, of Newington, who was arrested Monday on three charges of extortion. He was later released on $5,000 bond.

Major Leo F. Carroll of the State Police said Callahan admitted taking $600 in bribes to play on the books. Carroll added that Callahan had a "tax cheat" in the form of a ledger book, whose boss was even indicted.

A state attorney, Douglas B. Wright, charged that when Callahan found sales tax delinquencies on a ledger book, he would threaten to denounce the business unless he paid a "tax cheat" fee. He did not pay Callahan to "balance" the books.

Wright claimed the state lost an unaccounted amount of money when Callahan manipulated the accounts to show less purchases than there would be a smaller tax owed.

Callahan was specifically charged with taking $200 from Brazzaville, a Berlin restaurant owner, $200 from Isadore Vinnick, a Manchester hardware store owner, and $180 from Vincent F. Pasick, owner of a package store in New Britain.

Wright said three other cases are under investigation. The alleged bribes were said to be made during the past three years.

Beverly Man Is Accepted By B. U. Medical College

BOSTON, Aug. 26 (INS)—Memorandum of the American Bar Association in convention in Boston, today awarded an "important" policy speech by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

The speech was scheduled for 2:30 p.m. before the convention's general assembly.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tennessee) told the lawyers congress "simply could not operate without the aid of congressional inquiries." He admitted, however, that abuses have marked a number of these investigations and that many persons "have been harmed unnecessarily."

Lloyd K. Garrison, former chairman of the War Labor Board, a speaker at the same panel session, said the individual witness before some committees, "on trial for his religious associations or beliefs, status isolated and virtually defenseless at the mercy of the committee."

Kefauver replied:

"Undoubtedly, congressional committees have been unnecessarily hampered in their efforts to secure facts by the unjustified reliance of witnesses upon the self-incrimination clause of the Fifth Amendment. The courts have been very liberal in interpreting the Fifth Amendment.

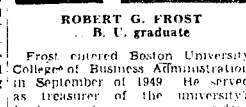

"I am afraid that with the coaching of some members of the bar, some of our worst criminals have been claiming immunity where the evidence sought would not be in the least incriminating against them."

He suggested that in rare cases where it is highly desirable that committees obtain testimony from reluctant witnesses, Congress should have, in a limited number and type of cases, the right of granting complete immunity in exchange for their testimony.

At a dinner meeting of the Judge Advocates Association, Sen. John Bricker of Ohio said it will be impossible to protect the fundamental rights of American servicemen stationed abroad under provisions of the N. A. T. O. treaty.

He said the treaty surrenders and local courts of NATO countries and Japan criminal jurisdiction over non-military offenses of American workers and their dependents.

"To put it bluntly," he said, "the American GI was sacrificed at the altar of international cooperation. We must do our best to protect them."

 so good to resume the entire length of the super-highway, as proposed by a majority of the Board of Aldermen.

Dowse explained, as most of the present already filled, that most of the area is either filled with ledge or swampy. This would make the cost of developing prohibitive.

How much of the land could actually be developed and offered to industry could be determined in a relatively short time by a professional planner, Dowse said. Such a survey would take into account not only the character and topography of the land, he explained, but also the availability of transportation, labor and public facilities, such as sewer, water, gas and electricity.

He told the civic affairs committee that the Javices might very well be the organization to take the leading role in the securing of a master plan for the community. He recommended that the members to be named to the committee be recognized as follows:

Questioned as to whether the Commerce Department would be willing to assign one of its men to Beverly to aid in this city in a survey of the land adjacent to Route 128, Dowse said that his office is short-handed now.

Elaborating further, he said that
