Wellesley Girl, 19,
Reported Missing
After Staying At Marblehead Home

Last Seen Cycling
Through Lynn By Friends; Talked to Father Thursday

WELLESLEY, Aug. 28 (INS) – An attractive Wellesley girl, a student at Bouve-Boston school, was reported [reported] missing today—the second college girl from Wellesley to disappear within a week.

Disappearance of Penelope Protze, 19, employed for the summer at the Eastern Yacht club soda fountain was reported to police by her parents [parents], Mr. and Mrs. Herman G. Protze [Protze] of Wellesley.

Penelope had been staying at the Marblehead home of a great aunt, Emily Thorner. She was scheduled [scheduled] to start her sophomore year at the school, a division of Boston University, next month.

She was seen yesterday afternoon passing through Lynn, toward Revere [Revere] on a bicycle. She was seen by a group of gals who had worked with her at the yacht club. It had been presumed that she was cycling to Wellesley.

The girl's father said he talked with her yesterday morning by telephone [telephone] and learned she had quit her job Monday.

When last seen she was wearing a white blouse and tan skirt. She was described as five feet eight inches, weighing 150 and with dark olive skin and blonde hair.

Earlier this week, Sylvia Plath, 20, Smith College honor student and literary contributor to national [national] magazines, was the object of a widespread search. She was found in the cellar of her home, suffering [suffering] from an overdose of sleeping pills.
