

6 am ed. p4

Dulles Scores UN Pact as Obsolete

The United Nations charter is obsolete and must be revised to deal with the atomic-age threat of mass destruction, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said yesterday.

Speaking to the general assembly of the American Bar Ass'n, at its 75th annual convention at Hotel Statler, Dulles pointed to three major inadequacies in the UN charter and said this country favors a review when the question comes up in 1953. The Secretary also spoke out against the Constitutional amendment proposed by Sen. John W. Bricker (R., Ohio) which would limit the President's treaty-making powers.

JOHN FOSTER DULLES
Arrives in Boston
(Special Telegram, LATIM Photo)

Dulles said the UN charter was "obsolete before it actually came into force," because when it was drafted at San Francisco in 1945 the first atomic bomb had yet to be exploded.

WEAKNESS NOTED
"As one who was at San Francisco," he said, "I can say with confidence that if the delegates there had known that the mysterious and immeasurable power of the atom would be available as a means of mass destruction, the provision of the charter dealing with disarmament and the regulation of armaments would have been far more emphatic and realistic."

Dulles said a second inadequacy stems from the fact that the late President Roosevelt, Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill planned the UN as a peacetime extension of their World War II triumvirate. He said that as a result they gave primary authority to the Security Council and provided the great powers must be in permanent agreement.

The third inadequacy, Dulles said, is the fact that the General Assembly has made but little progress in establishing fundamental law embodying "eternal principles of justice and morality" among nations.

UN CHANGE WANTED
The Secretary said he believes the Administration can achieve a better world despite the fact that man now has the power to destroy himself, but the UN would have to be changed to make this possible.

Earlier the House of Delegates of the Bar Ass'n adopted resolutions condemning "book burning," and pledging support for lawyers, who though personally anti-Communist, defend subversives as a matter of public duty.

R. I. MILK TO RISE
PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—The price of a quart of milk will go up one cent in Rhode Island next Tuesday, John P. Hull, executive officer of the state milk control board, announced yesterday.

Mr and Mrs. George Martin, of Kansas City, Mo., the parents of Roberta Martin, 8, had to cancel a Florida vacation because of her affection for this stray robin, shown in her hand. Roberta even fractured her arm in a fall seeking worms for the bird.

FAST PACE HITS MEN HARDEST

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The simple facts are that American men can't cope with the speed of modern life as well as their women. The Gerontological Society convention was told.

Fifty years ago, reported Dr. Charles Bernick, an insurance company medical director, there were 102 men past the age of 65 years for every 100 women in the same age group.

Now the ratio has changed to 89 men past 65 for every 100 women.

The reason, Bernick said, is that medical science has relieved women of a large percentage of the deaths which resulted from child birth, while at the same time greater and greater numbers of men have been dying during middle age from heart disease.

CROONER DICK HAYMES, ATTY. DAVID MARCUS
Arrive for Los Angeles Deportation Hearing
(Associated Press Wirephoto)

Haymes Bares He's Been Wed 3 Times

LOS ANGELES (INS)—Singer Dick Haymes, who is number one on Rita Hayworth's romantic list but who is alien number 3,992,057 to the United States government, opened his fight to escape deportation with the disclosure of a hitherto unpublicized marriage.

Haymes, at his hearing before special inquiry officer Joseph A. Dimmel of the U.S. immigration service, said he took his first wife when he was very young, in Chicago.

Haymes had failed to obtain postponement of the hearing.

He was previously believed to have been married only twice—to actress Joanne Dru and Nora Eddington Flynn Haymes. His present wife who is suing him for divorce.

Haymes said his first wife's name was Edith Harper and that the marriage lasted "for two or three weeks."

(Special American Photo by Ray Williams)

Missing Smith Girl Found in Own Cellar

Meaning and stupefied by drugs, 20-year-old Sylvia Plath, brilliant Smith College student missing since Monday, was found yesterday behind a pile of kindling wood in a cramped concrete recess in the cellar of her home in Elmwood st., Wellesley.

She was immediately rushed to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital where it was reported she would recover.

The girl's moanings led to her discovery even as police, who feared she may have taken her life, searched for her in dense woodlands at the dead end of Elmwood st., not far from the Plath home.

SOUNDS REVEAL GIRL
Mrs. Augusta Shober, 69, Sylvia's maternal grandmother, heard cultural sounds coming from the basement and traced them to the woodpile.

She called Sylvia's brother, Warren, who pulled away the kindling and found his sister lying on the concrete floor of the recess in a semi-conscious condition.

The girl, wrapped in a blanket, was wearing dungarees, slippers, and faced T-shirt, different clothing from that she wore when last seen.

Behind her was a jar with eight tablets of a sodium base sedative which originally was filled with 30 tablets. Another partly filled jar a sister was on the floor. Police Chief Robert E. McCabe said it has not been determined if Sylvia was in the cellar all the time or if she returned home Monday night and hid herself behind the kindling.

HOUSE SEARCHED

The chief frankly declared that he felt "responsible" and that any criticism in connection with this "should be aimed in my direction."

He explained that although he did not personally search the house himself, "it was searched by my men and I was satisfied from what they reported the girl was not in the house."

SYLVIA PLATH
Stupefied by Drugs

'Tis Not On

They say that money doesn't grow on trees, but it does grow in the pockets of the lucky. When the children of the lucky SUCK TREASURE HUNTING under way.

Real estate holding money trees at 2122 Chestnut street $500 a week for 1945. Selling Co. and get it from Boston American Sunday. Awaiting readers.

Unemotional baby-faced Alia a Chicago court as Carol Plath charged he forced her and h at the point of a gun. Beak

Claims I Topsy B

HARTFORD (AP)—Frederick B. Rentschler, United man, testified in superior court wedding day she almost called off the ceremony because of her husband's excessive drinking.

Mrs. Ann Rentschler Schmid of West Hartford told the story at the habeas corpus hearing in which her husband, George F. Schmid, Jr., 31, of Montclair, N. J., is seeking to share custody of 22-month-old son, Raymond Brand Schmid.

The blonde young matron said that Schmid began drinking triple old-fashioned cocktails at her father's home about 5 p. m. on Jan. 14, 1949, the day before the wedding.

He continued his drinking when the wedding party went to a Singsbury restaurant about 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Schmid testified, and by 10:30 p. m. he was too intoxicated to read the inscription on a silver cigarette case that she gave him as a present, she said.

The discussion, which Schmid said got going through the ceremony, she said, took place after they returned to her father's home.

She said she restrained Schmid from taking a bottle of gin and tonic after the ceremony, but he continued drinking at the Hartford Club where he was staying.

Mrs. Schmid said that in New York City, that night after the wedding her husband became so intoxicated that he had to be carried home.

DOCKERS STRIKE HITS QUEEN MARY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Queen Mary left behind 100 tons of general cargo and 15 automobiles in the name of a dockworkers' strike.