Hyde Park P.W., Wife Planning Real Honeymoon

"A real honeymoon, and no one will know where we go," is the No. 1 objective of Pfc. William Curtis, released Hyde Park prisoner-of-war, and his pretty wife, Catherine.

Mr. Curtis, her face still stained by tears shed at the joyful reunion last night, pointed out that "we only had about three days together when we got married a year ago this coming Sept. 14."

Her 23-year-old husband agreed that it would be "a honeymoon worth all the waiting."

The blond returnee's homecoming was celebrated quietly with only members of the family present at his mother-in-law's home, 691 River st., Hyde Park.

The 23-year-old soldier, "Billy," former star athlete at Hyde Park High, admitted that during his 6½-month internment his thoughts often dwelt on the Red Sox, his favorite team.

"Can't they win the pennant this year?" he asked last night with a grin.

At high school Billy played baseball and hockey. He recalled that he, a left-hander, was the winning pitcher when the City of Boston Schoolboy All-Stars beat the Catholic stars in 1948. He was given a tryout by the Yankees that Summer, but hurt his arm and has abandoned all professional baseball dreams.

Five N. E. Men Freed by Reds at Panmunjom

The Communists have released 136 more Americans in the 21st day of Operation "Big Switch" at Panmunjom, Korea.

New Englanders repatriated in the group included:

Sgt. James F. Hamilton, son of Mrs. Helen Hamilton, Treble Court road, North Billerica.

Cpl. Norman F. Beattwell, son of Mrs. Rose Boutwell, 8 st., Billerica.

Pfc. Leo E. Dwyer, nephew of Laura Wareing, 128½ Com. st., Lawrence.

Ser. Leonard Torkomian, brother of Marcis Torkomian, 114 Suffolk av., Pavtucket, R. I.

Cpl. John H. Beaudry, son of Mrs. Mary C. Beaudry, 920 (near) Main st., Williamstown, Conn.

The number of men freed in this latest exchange brought the total released so far to 1,155. The Communists have promised to release 3815 Americans listed as prisoners of war in their camp.

The repatriated group hopped nimbly out of Russian-built trucks. Among them were nine American officers.

Jackson Warns Against Bartering Away Rights

Justice Tells Bar Safeguards Needed in Face of Expanding Federal Powers

Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson told members of the American Bar Association last night that it will take ingenuity and diligence to protect individual rights from expanding government powers.

"Unless new safeguards are devised, an administration that is all-embracing will of necessity tend to become all-powerful," he declared.

Justice Jackson addressed more than 500 delegates to the Diamond Jubilee meeting of the American Bar Association at the Statler. The annual dinner honored the judiciary of the nation.

The jurist said that "traditional freedoms are less in danger of any sudden overthrow than of being gradually bartered or traded for something else on which the people place a higher current value."

"In this anxiety-ridden time many are ready to exchange some of their liberties for real or fancied increase in security against external foes, internal betrayers or criminals. Others are eager to bargain away local controls for a federal subsidy which gives individual rights for promise of collective advantages," he declared.

Beautiful Smith Girl Missing at Wellesley

Police in Greater Boston searched last night for Sylvia Plath, 20, a brilliant, beautiful Smith College senior from Wellesley, who disappeared from her home yesterday afternoon after leaving a note to her mother.

Mrs. Aurelia S. Plath, of 28 Elmwood st., said her daughter apparently left the house at 2 p. m., leaving a note saying she was "taking a long hike" and would "be back tomorrow."

However, Mrs. Plath said her daughter was close to a nervous collapse as a result of extremely intensive activities. Not only was she maintaining one of the highest scholastic standings at Smith, but also was working on poetry for submission to nationally-known publications.

Her work already appeared in Harper's, Mademoiselle, and other magazines, and she was the subject of a college feature story in the current Mademoiselle.

Mrs. Plath became concerned over her daughter's absence at supper-time when Sylvia failed to return. She said her daughter was unfailingly dependable.

Many of those on hand to welcome the returning troops had traveled long distances and had waited for hours at the piers.

Ex-Friend of Brother Placed at Crime Scene

Murder of Piemonte Kin Seen Linked to Jilting

A 14-year-old Somerville girl was found murdered in her home at 1:30 p. m. yesterday, and last night police hunted the jilted woman friend of an older brother as the "revenge" killer.

Mary DiRocco of 39 Minnesota av., niece of Boston City Councilor Gabriel Piemonte, was shot five times with a target pistol. Her throat was slashed, and the slayer tried to burn the body after dousing it with oil.

A New England-wide teletype alarm was sent out for a beautiful 23-year-old brunette who was seen leaving the DiRocco home moments before the murdered girl was found in the cellar by a brother.

Police said the wanted woman kept company with one of the DiRocco girl's brothers for several years, until he left her recently in favor of someone else.

The teletype pick-up order warned all officers to use caution. "She may be armed and should be considered dangerous," the message read.

Her picture was circulated last night at all airline, railroad and bus terminals in the belief she may have fled the city.

The slain girl's mother, a sister of Councilor Piemonte, was in a state of collapse and under a doctor's care at home.

When she was discovered, she was shot five times in the head and body with a .22 pistol. Her throat was slashed twice, apparently with a razor, after the fatal shots were fired.

The murderer then poured motor oil over the body, placed papers on it, and set them afire. But the oil did not catch and the fire burned out after scorching parts of the body.

Reconstructing the killing, police said Mary apparently was forced out of the bed in her first-floor bedroom by the slayer, who fired two shots at her there.

The girl's parents were both working and her brothers were away from home at the time.

One of these first shots went wild, striking the mattress, but police believe the other hit Mary in the stomach.

Desperately wounded, the girl apparently jumped from the bed and ran to seek sanctuary in the cellar, with the slayer pursuing her.

The other seven bullets from the clip, which held nine rounds, were fired as Mary ran down the cellar stairs.

She was struck in the left wrist, the jaw, in the head behind the left ear, and the back. This last shot penetrated to the heart and was the death wound, an autopsy showed.

Three other shots went wild, thudding into the cellar wall in front of the fleeing girl.

Then, as the dead girl lay on her back at the foot of the cellar stairs, the killer poured the contents of a bottle-filled mose-oil can over her, placed a magazine on the body, and tried to touch it off.

A pile of rags and matches beside Mary's feet showed the persistence of the attempt to cremate the body.

But the oil, which will only ignite at very high heat, refused to burn, and the magazine only charred. The killer then abandoned the plan to dispose of the body.

Lightning, Rain Lash Boston Area and Cape Cod

Darting bolts of lightning struck several Greater Boston homes and blinding rain was blamed for several auto mishaps as a thunder squall swept eastern Massachusetts and Cape Cod for an hour and a half at supertime last night before racing out to sea.

Winds up to 50 miles an hour accompanied the sudden storm, which hit Boston at 6:05 and lingered until 7:40 before disappearing as quickly as it came.

The storm left both messager and plentiful deposits of rain in its path. In Greater Boston the rainfall was estimated at 1.6 of an inch. But in Bedford 1.25 inches had fallen in the brief period. Several areas reported hail.

The Weather Bureau said it had forecast the squalls for the Worcester area, but the storm apparently had some unexpected zip and unleashed a powerful sock in the direction of Boston.

According to the weatherman, the storm was kicked off by a chunk of cool air breaking off from an advancing mass of cool air and forming a new front. Temperatures dropped about 20 degrees, from about 65 to the mid-40s, as part of the cold front hit.

Approximately half the storm council objected to the slate and urged that Joseph Lee substitute for Foley on the slate.

S. Koreans Warn of Boycott If India on Peace Panel

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 24—South Korea, denouncing India for "trafficking with Communists" and "intriguing with them to make the free world look contemptible," made official today a threat to boycott the Korean political conference if the United Nations invites India to attend.

The warning came from Col. Ben C. Link, South Korean ambassador to the U.N., after another meeting of the U.N. General Assembly Political Committee, currently debating the issue of what nations should participate in the forthcoming conference.

N. B. C. Meets Again Tonight to Argue City School Slate

The endorsement committee of the New Boston Committee will meet again tonight in an effort to iron out the controversy over a School Committee slate.

At a heated session last Thursday the N. B. C. civic council became deadlocked over a choice of the slate.

The original slate proposed was Isadore H. Y. Muehnick, Dr. Patrick J. Foley and Mrs. Alice M. Lyons, all members of the board; attorney Joseph C. Tomassello of Brighton, and George F. Daket, Boston realtor.

Approximately half the civic council objected to the slate and urged that Joseph Lee substitute for Foley on the slate.

Mossadegh was kicked out last week at the climax of a political upheaval which first sent the Shah into a brief exile and then brought him back all night to see his son, Cpl. [Name obscured]

British Golf Champion Loses

Marlene Stewart Loses U.S. Match on 19th

Mae Murray Bows in Rhody Play; Five Bay State Stars Triumph

By TOM FITZGERALD

WEST BARRINGTON, R. I., Aug. 24—Joyce Ziske, a 19-year-old unknown from Milwaukee took the first Championship today by winning a 19-hole upset on Marlene Stewart, the British amateur title-holder from Fonthill, Ont.

A professed Braves fan ("although I haven't seen them play"), Miss Ziske came through in an overtaking after missing an earlier chance to finish off Miss Stewart, also 19 and officially proclaimed "Canadian athlete of the year" for 1952.

On the 17th, the Wisconsin girl missed on a short putt which would have ended the encounter, 2-1 tie, and on the home green was in a trap enroute to a losing five.

Concedes Winning Put

Joyce wasn't upset by all of this, playing the 19th hole and developed a good second on 30 feet away, and stroked for approach putt within 15 inches. Marlene three-putted, and surprisingly conceding her opponent's short, but poorly-thereseen, par.

While this upset, the 3 and 2 second island course which plan Mr. John Hulteng over Curtis Cupper Mae Murray, highlighted the opening day of the Bay State amateurs contenders were turning in a pretty good account of themselves in the 12th U.S. State starters passing their initial tests.

Winning first round matches and facing the possibility of two matches tomorrow were Theodore "Pappy" Rooney of Chelsea River, Mrs. Mary Gleason of The Country Club and Cohasset, and Rose "Shell" Vesper, the Lowell title champion.

Granted first-round bye, state starter Mrs. David McClure of Worcester and Mrs. Charles Bartholomew of Brae Brook came through second-round contests by widely varying margins.

Falling in their bids for survival in the 18th holes were Mrs. Chapman Fay, Hillcrest; Doris McKay, Marshfield; Barbara Sully, Rockport; Mrs. Helen Gray, The Country Club; Mrs. Edward Troski, Adams; and Mrs. James Parker, Myopia.

Mrs. McClure won three-putted five greens, Mr. McClure won by 7 and 3 from C. George Taylor of Littleton, and Mrs. Bartholomew from five holes, but the Massachusetts title-holder won seven out of eight holes.

A noted overtime specialist, Mrs. Bartholomew produced par on the 18th hole to win by a narrow decision over Bibbel Benson of Freetown, Penn.

Miss Rooney Wins
Miss Rooney, Beaver Country Club teacher, gained the most significant victory by beating Mrs. Gleason the home guard when she eliminated Mrs. William Tracy of Glenport on the 17th hole, the Massachusetts Amateur by 4 and 3.

Pippy had some trouble with her hole-in-one on the 10th and even as late as the eighth, then won the next three with pars, ending with a par on the 10th and 11th, and ended it with a four on the 10th where Mrs. Tracy tucked her second shot.

Miss O'Neill, a director of physical education in the Lowell school system, was even par for the 12th hole and 7 and 5 over Mrs. Gleason of Providence after nine holes, then without a brie rally by the final hole to pull out a 3 and 2 margin.

Among the unsuccessful Massachusetts challengers, Mrs. McClure was beaten by Mrs. Roy "Cookie" Swift, holder of the New Jersey and New York state titles. Miss Sully lost to a poor start, dropped the first three holes and was ousted by Edna Anderson, Trans-Miss title holder, at the 11th hole. Mrs. Gray eliminated Mrs. Gleason of Providence after nine holes, then without a brie rally by the final hole to pull out a 3 and 2 margin.

Salem Boy Wins State Caddie Title

By ERNIE ROBERTS

WEST NEWTON, Aug. 24—Jim Maloney Jr. a wispy, blond, 17-year-old whose father taught him golf outside the Kernwood pro shop at a dozen years old, conquered an eight-foot downhill putt on the 36th green at Brae Brook this afternoon to finish with a birdie three, a 154 total and a one-stroke victory in the 32d State Caddie championship.

This Salem High senior, who has sprouted eight inches since he won the State Junior-Junior title two years ago and now resembles a two-ton with big grin, shot rounds of 78-76, eight over par for the exciting Brae Brook Meadows.

On Meadows, the unbelievable failing on the greens by another pro's son—Billy McGrill of Brookline—permitted Maloney to win with his 184 figure and a birdie three, a 154 total and a one-stroke victory in the 32d State Caddie championship.

But rugged Billy, who unwittingly switched to a heavy putter these fast greens, actually three-putted 13 greens and finished nine over par at 155.

Grady has 155
"I just couldn't get the feel of these fast greens. Broke my right hand in hooking three wedges and that might have bothered me. Ordinarily I'm not too bad at putting and after putting his 155." Maloney also at 155 was Dick Grady, Salem 17-year-old who enters the third round of the recent National Junior at Oklahoma, where he strokes below Maloney playing and hit took three from the edge of the 35th.

Fourth place went to "Art" Bree of the next month. Bree, a freshman, identified later as Walter McNeil. The M. G. A. took the wrong hole on the 17th and Bree explained "I didn't want to take too many mistakes off earlier," explained Maloney.

Defending champion Don Torpa of Maynard was still travel-veteran in the 32d round, winning only yesterday from Columbus, O., and the round but eliminated in the first round by the consolation flight. Don barely qualified for the afternoon round with an 85 on his first 18 but his finishing 78 left him in seventh place with 163.

Altogether there were 107 starters with those scoring 67 or less making the final 36 holes (107 in a downpour to meet his 157 total).

Waddanuck Leads in Junior Yacht Racing

LEONARD M. FOWLE
EAST GREENWICH, R. I., Aug. 24—Capt. Bob Jones, R. I. Amateur Yacht Club rallied after a disappointing race to capture the afternoon title in the "A" of the North American Junior Yacht Regatta today.

However, the South Shore champion's trail continued Waddanuck of the Massachusetts Yacht Club, who captured the title in the "B" race today. Waddanuck, a 15-year-old boy, was the only entrant in the "B" race and captured the title in the "B" race today.

Heroin's Welcome for Falconeri at Middleboro

MIDDLEBORO, Aug. 24—The Middleboro Police Department were welcomed by a large crowd of people... Heroin's Welcome for Falconeri at Middleboro... The dead girl's father, Angelo...

In one of the biggest receptions ever, hundreds of people lined the curbs to cheer the soldier. Sprinkled in the crowd were mothers holding their children waving flags. Familiar low-key shouts, "Welcome home, Doc, we missed you in the motorcade..."

Falconeri hung out the window of the limousine. He wore a big grin and waved back at the car that passed through the streets several times.

He went directly to his family at the airport and then drove with them to New Bedford. Commander Melvin Thomas of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post and his wife, Mrs. Thomas, met him. The party was accompanied by State Police cruiser drivers.

Police learned that the woman suspect left her job in Somerville for her home and she had been on the chance she may seek shelter with her mother, Mrs. M. C. She was being held in a hotel in Boston.

Police Chief Charles H. Rogers led the parade through town, followed by the Mayor, the Fire Department and other officials.

After the parade, the car drive into the garage. From there, the party adjourned to the Falconeri home at 18 South Main street open house was held.
