

Title: Boston Post

City, State: Boston, Massachusetts

Date: 29 August 1953

Pages: 1, 4

Missing Wellesley Girl Found in South Boston

An attractive Tufts College coed, missing for 24 hours from a Marblehead yacht club, where she had been employed, was found in South Boston late yesterday [yesterday], returned to her home in Wellesley and explained it was all a misunderstanding.

Miss Penelope Protze, 18, of 41 Martin st., Wellesley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman G. Protze, said she had been visiting friends on Douglas st., South Boston [Boston], while Greater Boston police were searching for her.

She was pedalling her bicycle en route to Marblehead when a truck driver spotted her and notified [notified] police. Patrolmen Joseph Di Natale and Paul Flanagan took her to South Boston station, where she was reunited with her father.

Penelope was reported missing [missing] Thursday afternoon from the Eastern Yacht Club in Marblehead [Marblehead], where she was formerly employed as a waitress. She plans

Continued on Page 3—Col. 4

[Photograph of Penelope Protze, her sister and mother]

WELLESLEY GIRL HOME—Miss Penelope Protze, sits with her mother, Mrs. Ethel Protze (right), and sister, Paula, 9, after returning to their Martin st., Wellesley, home.

Missing Girl Found

Continued From First Page

to begin her sophomore year this fall at the Bouve-Boston school of Tufts College.

Another Wellesley girl, Sylvia Plath, 20, a Smith College senior, was reported missing earlier this week and later found in the cellar [cellar] of her home. Miss Plath was reported in good condition last night at Newton-Wellesley Hospital [Hospital], where she was still under treatment for an overdose of sleeping pills.

Transcribed by Peter K. Steinberg, 11 September 2016.