Ike "Just Loafing" On First Day Of Real Vacation

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
FRASER, Colo. (AP)—President Eisenhower, enjoying his first full-time vacation in more than a year, planned to "just loaf" today at a secluded ranch here in the Colorado Rockies.

The President drove from Denver yesterday to the ranch of Axel Nielsen, an old friend. He intends to stay through next Tuesday.

White House press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen accompanying Eisenhower that the chief executive had decided to wait until tomorrow to do any trout fishing.

A sore elbow which developed while he was fishing at Pine, Colo., last week was keeping the President from St. Louis Creek, which flows through the ranch area.

"He is going to do nothing but just loaf today," said Hagerty.

Reporters were not permitted at the ranch itself yesterday or today, but were told they could enter the area tomorrow.

With the President are Nielsen, retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay board chairman of Continental Can Co.; Charles H. Tompkins, a Washington friend, and Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.
