The third inadequacy, Dulles said, is the fact that the general assembly "has made but little progress" in establishing fundamental law among nations embodying "eternal principles of justice and morality."

By Victor Kendrick
FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea, Aug. 26 (UP)—A freed prisoner disclosed today that Communists under the command of an infamous officer known as "The Tiger" killed a Roman Catholic nun and another woman on a North Korean death march. Pfc. Charles L. Fronapfel of Alliance, Neb. said about "88 men were killed in eight days" of the northward march in the early days of the Korean war.

"There were some priests and nuns who got the same treatment we did," Fronapfel said. "The North Koreans shot one nun and a Russian lady."

It was believed that the woman was a Russian who had defied Communism and taken refuge in Seoul only to be captured when the Reds overran

Living Cost at All-Time Peak

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (UP)—The government reported today that the cost of living climbed to a new all-time peak in mid-July. This means an estimated 1,000,000 auto workers will get an automatic wage increase of one cent an hour.

It was the second all-time peak for living costs in two months.

The pay increase for the auto workers — at General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and other auto manufacturers — will become effective with the first payday after Sept. 1.

Rising prices for food, housing and medical care and transportation raised the bureau of labor statistics consumers' price index two tenths of one per cent over the mid-June record. The mid-July index was 114.7 per cent of 1947-49 prices.

BULLETIN

WELLESLEY, Aug. 29 (UP)—Miss Sylvia Plath, 20, missing Smith college honor student, was found in the cellar of her home here today as an organized search for her was pressed by police and volunteers.

The girl, who was found by her brother, Warren, was taken to Newton-Wellesley hospital.

Miss Plath had disappeared Monday, leaving a note in which she said she was "taking a long walk—be back tomorrow."

She killed the 14-year-old girl and broke off with her and married another woman.

Police quoted petite Mildred McDonald, 25, of Somerville, Mass., as saying she shot the girl, Mary DiRocco, on Monday after the child told her the brother was happy with his new wife.

The girl had been shot five times, her throat slashed and her body partly burned in the DiRocco home in Somerville.

Shortly before noon today Miss McDonald appeared in General Sessions Court and waived extradition proceedings. She was turned over to Massachusetts authorities to face a murder charge.

"I do consent," she said, dabbing a handkerchief to her eyes, when Justice Abraham N. Geller asked her if she was willing to go back.

A sharp-eyed policeman, Patrolman George F. Grace spotted Miss McDonald near Times Square last night and took her into custody. He recognized her from an Associated Press wirephoto he had seen in the New York Daily News only minutes before.

For 10 hours, the blonde stenographer protested her innocence. Then near dawn police said, she admitted:

"I shot her several times." Detective Lieutenant David Murphy, of Lowell, Mass., attached to the office of District Attorney George A. Thompson of Middlesex county, Mass., who came here to question Miss McDonald, said her story became vague from that point on.

He said she barely remembered dragging the Di Rocco girl's body from a first floor bedroom to the basement. But he said she recalled cutting the girl's throat, pouring oil on the body and lighting it.

Murphy quoted her as saying she got some water from the kitchen later and attempted to extinguish the flames.

In Police Lineup
The distraught stenographer, who was employed by the Massachusetts State Division of Employment Security, made a dramatic appearance in a police lineup after she had been booked on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Murphy said Miss McDonald told this story to police before appearing in the police line-up: She had gone with the girl's brother, Joseph, for about three years. Then last April he married another girl.

She went to the Di Rocco home Monday to tell the girl's mother what she "thought" of the son. The mother wasn't home. Only Mary was there. Miss McDonald vented her pent up feeling on the girl.

She flared up with the anger of the spurned when the girl commented that her brother and his bride were very happy.

Was Unaware
The girl's father, Angelo Di Rocco, arrived home while Miss McDonald was there, but unaware that anything was amiss, ate his lunch and left again.

The discussion between the stenographer and the girl resumed, and Mary ordered Miss McDonald to leave the house. Miss McDonald pulled out the gun.

Twice, Mary answered phone calls from a cousin while Miss McDonald hovered by her. A short time later, Miss McDonald thought she heard someone at the door and, fearing the girl had managed to convey a warning in the phone calls, started shooting.

Then, after the slashing and burning, she boarded the bus for New York. The girl's body was found by a brother, Robert.

Miss McDonald stayed here first at the Stirling hotel, then moved to the YWCA. She told police she had obtained a job as a waitress and was to have begun work today.

Murphy, elaborating on the

Detective Lieutenant David Murphy

story Miss McDonald told, quoted her as saying:

"Everything reeled around me. I was just plain crazy."

The detective continued: "She said she went to tell the mother why she was mad at Joe, that after all, she was humiliated."

"I thought we were going to get married," he quoted her as

His fiancee, Marion Miner of Windsor, whom he was to have married next Saturday, was taken into protective custody by Windsor county jail at Woodstock.
