of men," Westerson said. "It must have been about 60 or 70 men there. They didn't announce sentences or anything."

FPC Nicholas Aramino of Le Roy, N. Y., first American released in the latest swap, said that he, too, had seen several men taken from Camp No. 3 on armistice day.

Aramino said they had been jailed on false charges and apparently would not be released. "They're still being held," Aramino said. "We haven't heard from them."

But some of the Americans returning today told conflicting stories on the fate of prisoners jailed for committing "crimes."

Cpl. Charles G. Guidetti, 32, of Philadelphia said Americans sentenced to long prison terms have been released and now are in nearby Kaesong awaiting repatriation.

Cpl. Eugene R. Reilly, 21, of New York, said there are about 45 or 50 of them in Kaesong.

"One man was sentenced to a 15-year-sentence, but he's there, too," Reilly said. "They had been told they would not be repatriated."

resolution and thus it was first to be put to a vote as the committee was polled in paragraph-by-paragraph ballots.

India, the center of contention in most of the committee's deliberations on the conference set-up, announced in both votes that it was "not participating."

Russia's slate gained support only from the Soviet bloc. In the vote on the western line-up, Yugoslavia and Guatemala joined the Soviet bloc in opposing it.

Abstentions were chiefly from the Asian-African bloc on both votes and this group was joined by Argentina and Mexico.

The committee faced a long morning of voting, with roll-calls being demanded and delegates asking for balloting by paragraphs. There were six resolutions before the group.

Before the voting started, the United States and Britain joined in denouncing Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky for his veiled threat that the Communists might boycott the Korean conference.

Vishinsky immediately denied that he had expressed a threat that the Communists would not attend the parley if Russia's slate for the conference was not accepted by the U.N.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., told the General Assembly's political committee that Vishinsky's position was "a perfect example of the kind of attitude which, if persisted in, will make peace impossible."

British delegate Sir Gladwyn Jebb followed Lodge with a declaration that Vishinsky's address to the committee yesterday was "one of the most unhelpful speeches I have ever heard him make—and that's saying quite a lot."

nor Domenico Tardini, pro-secretary of state for extraordinary affairs of the Vatican, signed the concordat. It contains 36 articles and a protocol.

The concordat confirms the existing status in Spanish Africa, meaning that Muslims and Jews may continue to worship publicly.

The Spanish government guarantees the teaching of the Roman Catholic religion in schools of every kind and degree. But the children of non-Catholics may be excused from such instructions by request of their parents or tutors.

The 1851 concordat was nullified by the Vatican in 1951 due to what was called "The anti-religious policy of the Spanish Republic."

AWOL Boston GI Seized In Murder Of Ohio Official

ZANESVILLE, O., Aug. 27 — (UP)—An AWOL soldier today confessed the murder of a state official near here last night, the state highway patrol said.

Officers said that he admitted shooting Joseph W. Harding, 53, Cuyahoga Falls, assistant director of the State Department of Industrial Relations, when Harding stopped at a service station and fought back during a holdup attempt.

Harold St. John, 25, Dorchester, admitted shooting Harding twice with a stolen Army pistol, police declared. He crawled from the brush beside the highway about two miles from the slaying scene at dawn and was captured by Cpl. C. E. Wells of the Cambridge highway patrol post. St. John had been shot in the leg during the scuffle with Harding.

The GI said that he had been absent without leave from Camp Atterbury, Ind., since Wednesday morning. He first told the officers that he was AWOL from Camp Brookline, N. Y.

St. John said that Harding picked him up as a hitchhiker on the eastern edge of Columbus on U. S. Route 40. He added that as they neared here he pulled a .32-caliber pistol from his pocket and demanded that Harding drive him to Pittsburgh.

The soldier said that Harding drove into a driveway at the Ellendale hotel and told the filling station attendant to "fill the tank." "This guy's got a gun," St. John said during the scuffle, the pistol discharged, striking him in the left knee. St. John drew another gun and shot Harding twice. He fled, leaving Harding dead of wounds in the chest and neck.
