

Title: The Post-Standard
City, State: Syracuse, New York
Date: 27 August 1953
Page: 3

[Photograph of SP wearing necklace and jacket]
Sylvia Plath
Found Semi-Conscious

Find Missing Girl Safe Under Porch

WELLESLEY, Mass. Aug. 26 (AP)
— A pretty 20-year-old Smith College [College] senior honor student—who vanished Monday after telling her mother she was going hiking—was found today semi-conscious but apparently uninjured under the porch of her home.

While searched fanned out in a widespread search, Sylvia Plath was located by her brother, Warren [Warren], 18, and her grandmother, Mrs. Aurelia Schobar, 66, who heard moaning coming from the cellar of their home.

The girl was found behind a pile of lumber in a tiny space under the porch, through which entrance is gained by a 2½-foot opening about five feet above the cellar floor.

Police Chief Robert McVey said an empty water jar and a container of eight sleeping tablets were found by the girl's side. He said the bottle had contained 48 tablets when full.

Her mother, Mrs. Aurelia S. Plath, a Boston University professor [professor], said her daughter because she felt "she was unworthy of the confidence held for her by the people she knew. For some time she had been unable to write either fiction or poetry."

Miss Plath was taken to Newton-Wellesley [Newton-Wellesley] Hospital where a spokesman described her condition [condition] as "fair." The spokesman added that she had suffered "no apparent serious injury."

Transcribed by Peter K. Steinberg, 30 October 2017.