

Shots Halt Burglar's Race to Loot-Piled Car

A 22-year-old burglary suspect was captured at gunpoint today following a bullet-marked chase that started when the youth was spotted leaving a Newbury st., Back Bay, television store with a screwdriver and flashlight in his hands.

The suspect, a Milton resident, was collared by Patrolman John J. Harkins as he attempted to reach his car parked on Hereford st. Officers said the auto was loaded with loot.

The patrolman chased the youth through alleys and backyards on Newbury and Gloucester sts. before he fired two shots to bring him to a skidding halt on Hereford st.

Harkins said he was making his rounds when the suspect stepped out of the hallway of the television store, spotted the officer and made a run for it up Newbury st.

"I took a quick look at the store," said Harkins, "and saw that the door had been jammed open. He tried to shake me by doubling back on me through alleys and side streets, but he stopped when I fired over his head."

"I saw his shadow in a hallway just about the same time that a neighbor leaned out a window and yelled out his hiding place."

Police said investigation revealed that a locked cash box and several television sets had been lined up just inside the door of the store. They said the youth apparently had started for his car to haul away the loot when the officer intervened.

The prisoner's car, they said, was loaded with assorted tools, a record player, blankets and rugs. Officers said they found dozens of keys and were checking to determine whether any fitted the doors of burglarized stores throughout Greater Boston.

"He had enough keys to open every store in the Back Bay," said one officer. "They might be his own keys, but no one person has that many doors to unlock."

Spreckels Must Face Court, Kay in Hospital

NEWPORT BEACH, Cal. (INS)—Sugar heir Adolph Spreckels II's preliminary hearing on assault charges will be held tomorrow even though his battered ex-wife, Kay Williams, remains in the hospital.

This was indicated by Judge Donald J. Dodge as the first official announcement on the actress' condition was released.

Her physicians, Drs. Helen Robertson and David Ballatine, said the blonde actress is suffering from a severe brain concussion, spinal injuries, arm and shoulder bruises and muscular spasms.

Spreckels is accused of knocking down his former wife, beating her with her own slipper and kicking her when she called at his Newport beach home last Thursday to get their children, Adolph III, 4, and Joan, 3.

Spreckels, free on $10,000 bail, has denied administering the beating.

Haymes 4F After Filing For Draft Skip

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Dick Haymes' attorney, Bob Eaton, admitted today the singer filed a form in 1944 expressly to evade military service, but emphasized that his client never exercised its provisions.

Prior to filing the form, which forever forfeited his rights to become an American citizen,

Eaton said, the Argentinian-born crooner had registered as an alien, and was classified 4C (alien classification).

Haymes later was classified 4F (unfit for military duty) when he was called up for his physical in Los Angeles, and did not employ the provisions of the form.

The attorney said that on two previous occasions Haymes had tried to enlist in the service

Wilson Faces New Attack on GM Contracts

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Government is on the verge today of awarding two huge tank and truck contracts which may fuel more criticism of Defense Sec. Charles E. Wilson's buying policies.

The contracts, to be exclusive or so-called "single source" awards, may renew charges that Wilson is favoring General Motors, the company he formally headed. The awards also would boost the percentage of military contracts already held by GM.

Army spokesmen said the first of the contracts to be let by the Army Ordnance Corps for half-ton trucks can be expected "any day." GM and Reo truck makers are the only bidders.

The second contract, for M-48 Patton tanks, is sought by GM's Fisher Body and Chrysler Corp., and will be announced in a week or two.

The secretary's "single source" policy has been criticized since a $70,000,000 fire destroyed GM's only plant which manufactures hydraulic transmissions at Livonia, Mich.
